IMPACT: State

Summary of Legislation: The bill authorizes the Indiana War Memorials Commission (the Commission) to establish a nonprofit corporation to promote public support for Indiana war memorials, to preserve and promote the historical and educational activities of the Commission, and to operate for the benefit of the purposes of the Commission. The bill authorizes the Commission to transfer money and personal property to the corporation. The bill legalizes establishment of the Indiana War Memorials Foundation, Inc., as the corporation the Commission is authorized to establish. The bill legalizes any transfer of money and personal property from the Commission to the foundation before March 15, 2004. The bill authorizes the Commission to transfer the operation of the Indiana War Memorial gift shop and all property associated with the gift shop to the Foundation.

Effective Date: Upon passage.

Explanation of State Expenditures: Summary: Under the bill, the War Memorials Commission may transfer money and personal property under the Commission's control to a nonprofit corporation known as the Indiana War Memorials Foundation, Inc. The transfers may be made without complying with state law concerning the disposition of state personal property (IC 5-22-21 and IC 5-22-22). The impact of the bill on state expenditures would depend on the amount of funds or property transferred by the Commission. The effective date of this provision is upon passage.

Indiana War Memorial Gift Shop: Under the bill, the Commission may transfer the operation of the Indiana War Memorial gift shop and all personal property associated with the gift shop to the Indiana War Memorials Foundation, Inc. The transfer and operation of the gift shop to the Indiana War Memorials Foundation, Inc., could present a savings to state expenditures if the Indiana War Memorials Foundation, Inc., assumed payment for staff and upkeep of the gift shop.

Background Information on Indiana War Memorial Commission: The Commission has 10 members appointed by the Governor, where every U.S. Congressional District in Indiana must be represented.
